BOXING MEANS DECENT LIVING

"I see some of the writers are advocating a match between Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford, the negro," said Joe O'Connor, manager of Young Ketchel, yesterday. "I can settle the matter for the present by saying that Ketchel will never box a colored man while I have anything to do with him."

Ketchel, who was standing by, smiled when his manager spoke, and the writer said to him:

"How do you feel about the matter personally?"

"Well, so far as I am concerned, I am willing to fight anybody. I am not particularly stuck on the idea of grappling and clinching with a con, but I am fond enough of the game to be willing to give any man a chance. Joe O'Connor is my manager, though, and whatever he says goes with me and every time. He says I must not box a negro, and that means that the color bar is up."

Under the circumstances the prospects of a go-between Langford and Ketchel are anything but bright.

Ketchel feels annoyed because stories have appeared in Eastern papers to the effect that he has been tripping the primrose path to such an extent as to premise an early falling away of his marvelous fighting qualifications. One article which Ketchel takes particular exception to made it appear that he kept late hours and drank deeply while he was supposed to be training for Thomas.

"I suppose I must expect to be rapped down again, even if I don't deserve it," said Ketchel. "Such is fame, they say. The man who sent word East that he saw me frequently at a late hour and under the influence while training for Thomas lied. During that particular training spell I took one automobile ride out along the beach boulevard, and was back to my quarters before dark. I was never out late at all. I was properly trained, as my work in the ring showed. I haven't reached the height of my ambition yet by any means, and I would like my friends all over the country to know that I will take good care of myself and lead the kind of a life that a fellow who has dreams of becoming the world's champion should lead."—W. W. Naughton in S. F. Examiner.

A HAWAIIAN DOG

A new breed is soon to become fashionable in dogs, for from the latest reports from Honolulu comes the information that a new canine is being bred which will be known as the Hawaiian hound, and from all accounts it is a wonder. It is asserted that the introduction of this latest breed will mark the greatest epoch in canine history since the fox terrier. Experimenting has been going on for the past four years with the object in view of breeding a dog that would kill the elusive mongoose in all weathers, at any time of the year.

The new breed will be known as the Hawaiian hound, and puppies will be on exhibition in a few weeks. The dog will be low to the ground and admirably adapted to chase mongoose, as its long, low body will permit it to make rapid progress through the underbrush in which the mongoose takes refuge when pursued. Its ears will be long, like a dachshund's, but its nose will not be as snipy as the German dog's. In appearance, however, it will resemble the dachshund somewhat, but will be more stumpy and altogether a better and stronger dog. Two previous litters of the mongoose hound have been born, but only two of the puppies were saved.—St. Louis Sportsman.

MOOHEAU TEAM COMING

HILLO, Sept. 5.—Mr. G. V. Jakins has received a wireless message from C. J. Falk, of Honolulu, accepting the offer made by the Mooheau team to play base ball in Honolulu. The Hillo boys will leave here by the Mauna Kea on Friday, September 18, returning from Honolulu on September 29. This will give them time in which to play one game each with the Panahou, St. Louis, Kaneohe and Diamond Head teams, and a combined Hillo vs. Honolulu match.

SPORTING SPOOTS

The Tennessee have defeated the Washingtons and will play the Californians tomorrow.

Charlie Reilly's go with Fox of the Perry in Independence Arena yesterday afternoon was declared a draw, 10 rounds, as were the Waller-McFadden 8-rounder and the McKay-McCullough 6-rounder. Draws are getting popular.

The Advertiser asks "Was the fight a draw?" with reference to a cable received and the Ketchel-Papke fight. It gives the skeletonized cable as "Draw Papke twelfth." The interpretation should be to the effect that the Moran-Attell fight was a draw and Papke defeated Ketchel in the twelfth round, the dispatch referring to the two fights and not to the Ketchel-Papke fight alone as the Advertiser seems to have thought.

CHICAGO, August 20.—Packy McFarland returning from California today. After a stay in the city for a few days he will leave Monday for the East. Packy has not yet made definite plans for his fighting future, except that he has his mind firmly set to get another match with Freddie Welch and incidentally trim the latter in a most decisive manner. The draw decision which Jeffries handed him in his Los Angeles battle is still on his mind, and he intends to how up the Englishman at the first opportunity. The stockyards boy says, taking it all in his California trip was very profitable to him. He says he thought he had Welch beaten a mile.

CHICAGO, August 20.—Billy Papke and his manager, T. E. Jones, breezed into town this morning, coming through from New York. They are on their way to Los Angeles to box Stanley Ketchel.

Papke and Jones both dashed away to their homes in Illinois for a brief visit before going West. Papke wanted to leave tomorrow night for the Coast but Jones is afraid of the Friday hoodlums, and it was decided to leave early Saturday morning.

"There will be no hitch to the Los Angeles battle," Jones said, "providing we can come to terms on the weight question. I am boxing before the Jeffries Club because I gave Baron Long, the matchmaker, my word that if he could sign Ketchel I would come through with the match. That's why it is going through."

"As to the weight, I don't see why Ketchel should not make the same weight for Papke that he did in Milwaukee. That was 154 pounds, at 3 o'clock. But I won't insist on that; but will agree to 156 pounds three hours before ringside if he wishes."

"But if he weighs 158 pounds at 9 o'clock in the morning for an afternoon fight, he will be a heavy-weight by the time we enter the ring. Billy don't want to fight heavyweights."

"We had a nice trip in the East. We got a forfeit for the first Burke fight, which the police stopped. We did well in Boston and also with Burke, the other night. Burke is a tough fellow, but the only way he could stick six rounds was by hanging on."

An effort was made by Eastern promoters to match Sam Langford and Papke at Los Angeles, said last night: If his man ever decided to take on a colored fighter they would give the fight to either Milwaukee or a Pacific Coast club.

Joe O'Connor, manager of Stanley Ketchel, in discussing the weight conditions for the coming fight with Papke at Los Angeles, said last night: "Ketchel signed up to meet Papke at Los Angeles, 158 pounds at 9 a. m. on the day of the fight. This is the only weight conditions that we will consider. Why Papke wants 154 or 156,

GREAT REFORM BATTLEFIELD

CHINA THE THEATRE OF A MOMENTOUS STRUGGLE AGAINST WESTERN VICES FOLLOWING WESTERN CIVILIZATION AND AGAINST THE PERPETUATION OF THE OPIUM TRAFFIC—HOW THE CAMPAIGN IS TO BE WAGED.

(Special Correspondence.)

HONOLULU, T. H., September 8, 1908.—The forces of good, that work for reform and righteousness, must be active and doing, if they are to overcome the mighty powers of evil that are ever pushing to make more of their ill gotten dollars from the vices and sorrows of mankind. One of the greatest reforms of the century is now taking place in the vast Empire of China. It is the fight against opium. It is indeed a noble effort and is meeting with remarkable results. From a recent report we note that Frederic S. Isham has been traveling in eastern Asia, and has given special attention to the efforts being made in suppressing the opium traffic. He found that in many places the people who profited by the opium trade are now co-operating with the authorities for its eradication; that opium-smoking is now generally looked down upon by high-caste Chinese, and everything seems to point to the success of the crusade against it. But he informs us that, in giving up his opium, the Chinaman is slowly but surely acquiring a new vice—whisky drinking.

"Cheap whisky," he says, "is being imported and consumed to an extent that causes thoughtful men much concern. The Chinaman works hard; he is not lazy; his food is barely sufficient to sustain him. The drug probably was much indulged in, owing to this fact; as its use is being slowly curtailed."

GREAT HIT AT THE ORPHEUM

Pacific fleet sailors formed the largest element in the audience that packed the Orpheum last night. Among a goodly representation of townspeople were many of the oldtime players. "At Piney Ridge," as presented by Richard Buhler and his able support of the Lumley company, carried the house in a steady gale of acceptance. Applause and laughter sometimes compelled the actors to go back over their lines so as to preserve the story's continuity for those who never want the thread broken.

The demonstrations of the Jackies were almost as entertaining as the play. Before the curtain rose at the beginning, also between acts, woe to a comrade who walked in the aisles or sat down with his hat on. The vocal attack on him would be fierce. Shouted comments on the villain in the midst of an act were common. Thus when the vengeance seeking father with a shotgun was telling that character what he would do to the man he was looking for once he knew how it was, a Jackie away back sung out eagerly, "That's him."

The play gives a view of the South, in particular the Tennessee mountain region, after the war. It has many dramatic situations, some of them with all the thrill that anyone wanting such nerve stimulus might demand. All of the principal characters are well taken by the Lumleys, the cast being as follows:

Jack Rose, of Piney Ridge.....
.....Mr. R. Buhler
General Deering, President of the Bank of Tennessee.....Mr. C. Stevens
Mark Briarson, Cashier of the Bank.....Mr. T. Lowell
Major Jarrett, an employee of the Bank.....Mr. H. Hynds
Zeb Lane, a mountaineer.....
.....Mr. L. Lindhard
Rube Hollier.....Mr. H. Taylor
Uncle Israel, body servant of Gen. Deering; Abe Moonlight, in love with Susannah.....Mr. E. Ballard Cindy Lane, Zeb's daughter.....
.....Miss Virginia Thornton
Azelle Deering, the General's daughter.....Miss Maybelle Alberta
Mrs. Lane, Zeb's wife; Chlotilde Beverly.....Miss H. Jocelyn
Dagmar, an Octoroon.....
.....Miss Louise Orendorf
Susannah, a yaller gal.....
.....Miss Helen Brandon
Manny Somers, Susannah's mother.....Mr. T. D. Bates
Miss Brandon, Miss Taylor and the two Maes made hits with their specialties.

I can't understand, because it was clearly understood that the weight that I have stipulated, weigh in at the hour named, would be 158. This is the only condition under which we will agree to meet Papke. Saturday morning we will leave for Los Angeles in an automobile to be on the ground as the conditions of our agreement call for. What the outcome will be will probably be decided at a conference between the club officials and myself on our arrival in the Southern city.

ed whisky seems to be taking its place—and very bad whisky at that. The problem, in consequence, grows complicated; the white man decries the opium in one breath, and offers to furnish the whisky for the yellow man in the next."

It looks as if the "white man's burdens" are also to be laid on the people of China in addition to their own. The people of Christian America should exert all their great influence against these wrongs to the people of Asia, who are now striving for their own deliverance. The outlook seems bad but let no one be discouraged. It has been well said: "The struggle is bitter and long, but victory is as inevitable as the dawn. Let none be dismayed or falter when the fight seems to turn into defeat. Let none yield or faint, for surely the world's sin and sorrow will at last be subdued by the dauntless soul of man." With the power of a real Christianity in the world to aid and inspire man in his fight against evil, the final victory is sure. The thing to do is to keep at it.

China is also threatened with the cigarette habit. Millions upon millions are going there from America every month. At Shanghai I have seen large cargoes of the American cigarette unloaded. It is the best for the "almighty dollar" that backs this business. The fight must be against it, and it is now time to be up doing.

The same play is on tonight. For the latter half of the week, closing the engagement, "Camille" will be played.

YALE MEN UNITE

Out of thirty-eight alumni of Yale in this Territory, twenty attended a banquet at the University Club last night and organized a Yale Alumni Association.

A. F. Judd presided, and the toast to the President was responded to by Governor Fear of the class of '85. The toast to Yale was responded to by Frederick W. Williams of the class of '79, professor of Oriental history in Yale. The toast Hawaii was responded to by George R. Carter of the class of '88.

The association was organized with Dr. W. D. Alexander of the class of '55 as president; Rev. Dr. Doremus Scudder, vice president; C. F. Clemens, secretary; R. C. Cooke, treasurer, and a committee to perfect the details of the organization consisting of J. P. Cooke, A. F. Judd and R. E. Bond.

Count Bond says he wants the children. Are they old enough to support him?—Atlanta Constitution.

HERMIT FOUND DEAD IN BOXCAR LEAVES FORTUNE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 22.—The will of Peter Meier, the Jerseyville hermit, who was found dead in his boxcar home in the outskirts of Jerseyville, several weeks ago and whose cash and securities were found in an iron box under his cot, has been filed for probate.

Meier left an estate valued at $25,000, consisting of deeds of trust on St. Louis property and $500 cash. He left $5,000 in trust for his wife, who is in an insane asylum in Jacksonville, Ill. If she recovers it is to be given to her outright.

To the German evangelical orphan's home at Hoyleton, Ill., $2,000 is given. The residue of the estate, real and personal, is left to the evangelical synod of North America, to be used for the benefit of widows and orphans.

The national campaign is notoriously late in making its start. But this accords with the growing American taste for taking life easy during the heated months.—Boston Transcript.
